A compelling look at those who’ve transcended the wall and refuse to see The Other as enemy

Our Way to Fight
Peace-Work under Siege in Israel-Palestine

MICHAEL RIORDON

A book like a pocket lamp that contests darkness: the darkness fabricated by those who have promoted a global blindness concerning what has happened in Palestine and Israel during the last sixty years. The battery of this remarkable lamp is true observation, and with it you discover exemplary courage in the most unexpected places. Pocket it!
– JOHN BERGER, author of From A to X, a novel inspired by the people of Palestine

OUR WAY TO FIGHT follows the dangerous lives of non-violent peace activists in Israel and Palestine. It explores crises that stirred them to act, the risks they face, and small victories that sustain them.

Michael Riordon takes us to thousand-year-old olive groves, besieged villages, refugee camps, checkpoints, and barracks. In the face of deepening conflict, Our Way to Fight offers courageous grassroots action on both sides of the wall and points the way to a liveable future. These engaging stories will provide inspiration to peace activists in Israel, Palestine, and across the world.

Michael Riordon is the author of An Unauthorized Biography of the World: Oral History on the Front Lines (2005) and of three other books. He has also had numerous articles published and produced award-winning documentaries.

A collection that provides glimpses into the journey begun when international development professionals touch down in foreign lands

Generation NGO

EDITED BY ALISHA APALE AND VALERIE STAM

Canadians are increasingly active and engaged in global issues. Many are eagerly poised to contribute to international development and the Canadian national politics that, for better or worse, shape the field.

Generation NGO captures some of the first impressions of these international development professionals before their recollections are relegated to the dusty corners of memory. It provides snapshots of their first experiences with inequality and poverty, power and privilege, stereotypes, identity, social location, prejudice, and injustice. These writings illustrate the continual negotiation of development workers in positioning and conducting themselves in a morally and ethically charged profession. A must-read for Canadians contemplating development work abroad, this collection will also provide food for thought for more seasoned veterans of NGO forays long after they have returned from the field.

Alisha Apale coordinates the Aboriginal Health Initiative of the Society of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists, Canada. Valerie Stam is a Community Developer at a Community Health Centre in Ottawa where she enjoys translating her overseas development experience into local practice.
Challenging—unsettling—our commonly held understanding of multiculturalism

Home and Native Land
Unsettling Multiculturalism in Canada
EDITED BY MAY CHAZAN, LISA HELPS, ANNA STANLEY, AND SONALI THAKKAR

HOME AND NATIVE LAND takes its vastly important topic and places it under a new, penetrating light—shifting focus from the present grounds of debate onto a more critical terrain.

The book’s articles, by some of the foremost critical thinkers and activists on issues of difference, diversity, and Canadian policy, challenge sedimented thinking on the subject of multiculturalism. Not merely “another book” on race relations, national identity, or the post 9-11 security environment, this collection forges new and innovative connections by examining how multiculturalism relates to issues of migration, security, labour, environment/nature, and land. These novel pairings illustrate the continued power, limitations, and, at times, destructiveness of multiculturalism, both as policy and as discourse.

May Chazan is a Ph.D. candidate in the Department of Geography and Environmental Studies, Carleton University, Ottawa. Lisa Helps is a Ph.D. candidate in the Department of History, University of Toronto. Anna Stanley is a lecturer in Human Geography, in the Department of Geography, at the National University of Ireland, Galway (NUIG), in Galway, Ireland. Sonali Thakkar is a Ph.D. candidate in the Department of English and Comparative Literature, Columbia University, New York.

In a world of security cameras, border control, email, and DNA, this book examines the extent to which Big Brother is watching us all.

The No-Nonsense Guide to Global Surveillance

ROBIN TUDGE

Spying, once solely the domain of the KGB, CIA, CSIS, and MI5, has become part of everyday life. Governments routinely trawl our emails, closed-circuit security cameras follow us in malls, office buildings, and on street corners, while databases of our DNA and other personal details become larger all the time.

This No-Nonsense Guide provides a well-researched look into the history of surveillance and how the process is carried out today with the aid of technology and, often, lack of express consent.

Robin Tudge is a freelance journalist and author who has lived and worked in Chicago, Pyongyang, Moscow, Hanoi, and Beijing. Robin Tudge is the author of The Bradt Guide to North Korea and the award-winning Rough Guide to Conspiracy Theories.
The No-Nonsense Guide to Climate Change
The Science, the Solutions, the Way Forward
DANNY CHIVERS

JUST AS THE NEED FOR ACTION on climate change becomes more urgent and overwhelming, the campaign to deny that humans are causing it has gained more traction. This completely new book meets the skeptics head on, offering a guide to the science, an insight into the politics of climate justice, and a clear sense of the way forward.

This is an ideal offering for students, academics, and anyone interested in the growing issue of society’s impact on climate change and how to make climate justice a reality.

Danny Chivers is a freelance carbon analyst and environmental writer. He recently created for The Guardian newspaper an online carbon calculator encapsulating all of the UK’s emissions—and is working on one that will do the same for the US. He is also a prominent performance poet.

A collection addressing the relative lack of attention paid to critical race and anti-colonial feminist studies within university departments in Canada

States of Race
Critical Race Feminism for the 21st Century
EDITED BY SHERENE RAZACK, MALINDA SMITH AND SUNERA THOBANI

CRITICAL RACE FEMINISM, like critical race theory more broadly, interrogates questions about race and gender through an emancipatory lens, posing fundamental questions about the persistence if not magnification of race and the “colour line” in the twenty-first century. The writers of these articles—whether exploring campus politics around issues of equity, the media’s circulation of ideas about a tolerant multicultural and feminist Canada, security practices that confine people of colour to spaces of exception, Indigenous women’s navigation of both nationalism and feminism, Western feminist responses to the War on Terror, or the new forms of whiteness that persist in ideas about a post-racial world—insist that we must study racialized power in all its gender and class dimensions.

Sherene Razack is a Professor in the Department of Sociology and Equity Studies, University of Toronto. She is the author and editor of a number of books, including Race, Space, and the Law: Unmapping a White Settler Society. Sunera Thobani is an Assistant Professor at the Centre for Women’s and Gender Studies, University of British Columbia. She is the author of Exalted Subjects: Studies in the Making of Race and Nation in Canada. Malinda Smith is an Associate Professor in the Department of Political Science, University of Alberta.

All artists, intellectuals, and social activists should read States of Race.

Losing Control
Canada’s Social Conservatives in the Age of Rights
TOM WARNER

SHEDDING A BRIGHT LIGHT on a dark side of Canadian politics, Losing Control critically examines Canada’s social conservative movement and discovers a reactionary, anti-reform insurgency of evangelical Protestants and Roman Catholics. Tom Warner chronicles the religious right’s advocacy on a range of moral issues—from abortion and the regulation of consensual sex to same-sex marriage and moral instruction in the public schools. He finds a movement desperate not to lose control of the state’s moral agenda in an age of Charter rights.

This timely and important book raises truly alarming questions about the close relationship between a resilient, never-say-die social conservative constituency and the political direction of the federal Conservative Party.

Long-time activist Tom Warner has been an advocate and spokesperson on a wide range of issues for queer communities in Canada. He led efforts to secure the inclusion of sexual orientation as a prohibited ground of discrimination in the Ontario Human Rights Code, was principal spokesperson for the campaign to secure the legal recognition of same-sex relationships in Ontario laws, and served as Ontario Human Rights Commissioner from 1993 to 1996. He is the author of the widely acclaimed Never Going Back: A History of Queer Activism in Canada.

A meticulous study...impressive in both scope and detail.

A true story about a Kurdish man pressured by CSIS to spy on fellow members of the Kurdish community in Canada

Our Friendly Local Terrorist
MARY JO LEDDY

OUR FRIENDLY LOCAL TERRORIST tells the story of the fourteen year struggle of Suleyman Govan, a Kurd accused by the Canadian Security Intelligence Service of being a terrorist. Mary Jo Leddy was “accidentally” present at Suleyman’s first interview with CSIS. During that eight-hour ordeal he was propositioned: you work for us as a spy and you’ll get your papers; otherwise—there are no guarantees. Mary Jo continued to be a witness to this bizarre and painful process over the following years at judicial and semi-judicial hearings, which finally ruled that Suleyman ought to be given his papers.

This moving personal story explores the efficacy of the immigration and security clearance systems in the Canadian government. It also provides an entry into the (often-complex) political dynamics and pressures within Kurdish communities in Canada and elsewhere in the diaspora, and reveals Turkey’s role and influence in international relations when the tender of huge business contracts is at stake.

Mary Jo Leddy is the Director of Romero House in Toronto and a member of the Order of Canada. She is the author of Radical Gratitude, At the Border Called Hope: Where Refugees are Neighbours, and In the Eye of the Catholic Storm: The Church Since Vatican II.

This book is essential reading that opens an educational path CSIS certainly would not want readers to take. It also goes a long way towards explaining why the agency continues to inspire fear with late night door knockings, deceptive invitations to grab a coffee, and its enormous power to destroy people’s lives.
– RABBLE.CA

Suleyman’s story in Canada is not only Job-like, but also Dante-esque, in that he, like Dante’s Virgil, a man of many virtues, is nonetheless mired in limbo.

Random Acts of Culture
Reclaiming Art and Community in the 21st Century

CLARKE MACKEY

IN OUR SOCIETY, cultural activity—or “the arts”—usually means the high culture of the elites and popular mass culture. Clarke Mackey offers a third category that is as old as human society itself but seldom discussed: vernacular culture.

Vernacular culture comprises all those creative, non-instrumental activities that people engage in daily—activities that provide meaning in life: social gatherings, group sports, informal storytelling, musical jam sessions, cooking and gardening, and street festivals. In this lively and eclectic discussion Mackey maintains that practising and celebrating such activities at the expense of passive, consumer culture has far-reaching beneficial effects on all aspects of human life. This is a timely, considered, and provocative response to the popularity of amateur, participatory, and do-it-yourself culture available on the internet.

Clarke Mackey has taught in the Department of Film and Media at Queen’s University since 1988. Over the last forty years his feature films, television shows, and documentaries on social justice issues have won awards and garnered much critical praise. In the late 1970s Mackey took a six-year sabbatical from his media career to work as a preschool teacher; it was during this time that he first developed his ideas about vernacular culture.

Mackey writes lucidly and makes a solid argument for avoiding a world where every act of expression comes with an owner’s manual or an entrance fee.

– QUILL & QUIRE

Random Acts of Culture is revolutionary. It looks at why art is the way it is and how it could—and maybe should—be different.

An updated edition of a classic resource in Canadian social work education

Case Critical
Social Services and Social Justice in Canada, Sixth Edition
BEN CARNIOL

INCORPORATING THE CRITICAL perspectives, emphasis on diversity, and pointed suggestions for change that made previous editions into bestsellers, Ben Carniol pulls together today’s most pertinent research, critical analysis, and practice examples and presents them in this accessible sixth edition of Case Critical.

In the context of the current economic and political climate, this new edition discusses First Nations issues, the increasing corporatization of service, and the explicit link between social work practice and social movements. It poses many vital questions. Why, as social work education develops progressive approaches, are so many social services deteriorating? What can social workers do about it? And, why do progressives persist in their work?

Carniol, a long-time social work activist, offers his own observations in this provocative and ultimately hopeful edition.

Ben Carniol has focused on issues of social justice, social change, and social services for over forty years. He is Professor Emeritus, School of Social Work, Ryerson University, Toronto, where he coordinates the delivery of social work education to off-campus Aboriginal students, in partnership with the First Nations Technical Institute.

Pulls together facts, figures and interviews, offering social workers a reality check and concerned citizens a look inside Canada’s troubled social service agencies.
– TORONTO STAR

Carniol has his finger on the pulse of social work in the new millennium, artfully weaving discourse with practical suggestions that encourage us collectively toward a respectful, inclusive, and life-affirming liberatory social work framework.

Persistent Poverty
Voices From the Margins
JAMIE SWIFT, BRICE BALMER, AND MIRA DINEEN

“IT'S A VERY SHORT TRIP from the limousine seat to the curb.” Jim Mann never missed a payroll for the dozen men who worked for the flourishing landscaping business he built from the ground up. Now he lives hand to mouth. His pockets are empty long before his next social assistance cheque arrives.

In early 2010 over two hundred civic and faith leaders fanned out into thirty Ontario communities. Their goal? To explore how the least fortunate people in one of the world's richest places are faring.

The Interfaith Social Assistance Reform Coalition's latest social audit exposes a tattered social assistance system with volunteers struggling to fill the gaps. There can be no papering over the savage inequalities and suffering exposed by this compelling look at life as seen from the curb.

Kingston writer Jamie Swift is the author of numerous books. He works on social justice issues for the Sisters of Providence of St. Vincent de Paul. Brice Balmer is an adjunct professor in the Graduate Theological Studies program of Conrad Grebel University College and the University of Waterloo. Mira Dineen is in her final year of study at Queen's University in Kingston, Ontario, where she is completing a B.A. (Honours) in Global Development Studies.

Thanks

Thanks to all the readers, authors, instructors, librarians, booksellers, and suppliers whose support has carried us into our thirty-fourth year!

We’re grateful to University of Toronto Press Distribution and to Brunswick Books for their efforts on our behalf.

Thanks in particular to the talented editors and designers who turn manuscripts into books, and to the Canadian printers who manufacture them.

Between the Lines gratefully acknowledges assistance for its publishing activities from the Canada Council for the Arts, the Ontario Arts Council, the Government of Ontario through the Ontario Book Publishers Tax Credit Program and through the Ontario Book Initiative, the Ontario Media Development Corporation, and the Government of Canada through the Canada Book Fund.

Want to write Between the Lines?

We’re always looking for new manuscripts from sharp minds who want to challenge the mainstream.

Our submission guidelines are available on our website at www.btlbooks.com
FOUNDING IN 1977, Between the Lines publishes books that support social change and justice. Our goal is not private gain, nor are we owned by a faceless conglomerate. We are co-operatively run by our employees and a small band of volunteers who share a tenacious belief in books, authors, and ideas that break new ground.
